EXPLORE ZUNI - CIBOLAND

BLUEWATER STATE PARK: Fishing, boating, camping and loafing. An ideal vacation spot.

EL MORRO NATIONAL MONUMENT: Landmark of Indian tribes, Conquistadores, Cavalry troops, and west bound wagon trains. An autograph album carved in stone with names dating back to 1605. Good hiking, picnicking, and camping.

FENCE LAKE: Cattle, dry farms and site of Indian ruins.

FORT WINGATE: An historic frontier outpost of the U. S. Army; now site of an Indian boarding school.

GALLUP: Northern gateway to Zuni-Cibola Country. Important as an Indian trading center. Claims title of "Indian Capital". Site of the world-famous Inter-tribal Indian Ceremonial.

GRANTS: Eastern gateway to Zuni-Cibola Country. Known as the "Uranium Capital" due to its nearness to the largest known uranium deposits in the U. S. Nearby Mt. Taylor reaches 11,389 feet, and lava flows surround the city.

ICE CAVES: Bubbling lava from nearby extinct Bandera Crater formed deep grottos where rains and snows have turned to ice down through the centuries.

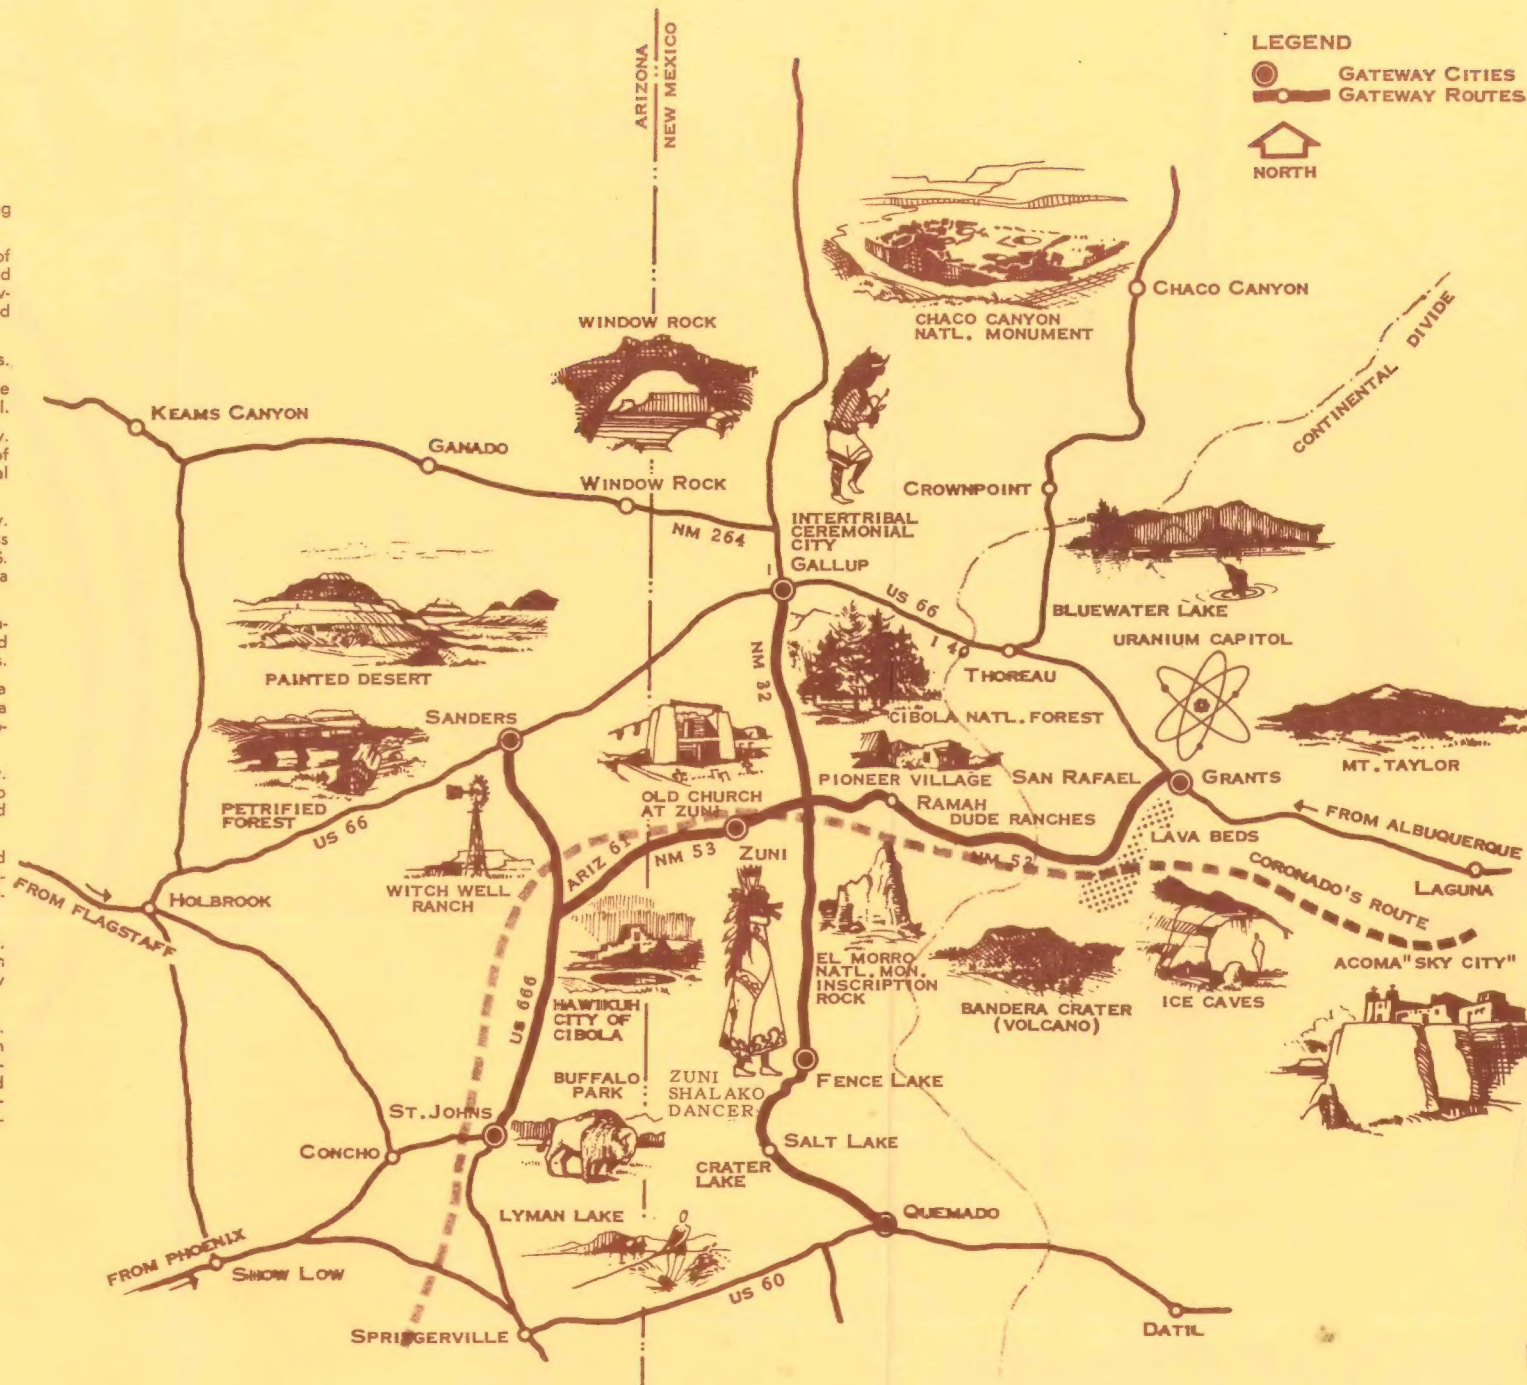

McGAFFEY RECREATIONAL AREA: Tall Ponderosa pines surround a beautiful lake in the center of Cibola National Forest. Fishing, swimming, and ideal camping areas.

QUEMADO: Southern gateway to Zuni-Cibola Country. Rich cattleland area near Zuni Salt Lake and El Cazo Lake Recreational Area. Hunting, fishing, hiking, and mountain camping.

RAMAH: Center of Ramah-Navajo Reservation. Good fishing, hiking, horse-back riding. Beautiful wind-sculptured cliffs of red and white striped rocks, surround lush garden lands.

ST. JOHNS: Western gateway to Zuni-Cibola Country. Fishing, swimming, water skiing at nearby Lyman Lake. Buffalo grazing area. The Sierra Wacos, "Hollow Mountains" are outstanding attraction.

ZUNI: Largest Indian Pueblo in the United States. Originally called Hawikuh, was one of the "Seven Cities of Cibola", sought by Coronado and the Conquistadores. Today a village noted for its fine inlaid silver jewelry. The visitor may happen upon a ceremonial almost any day. Photograph and fishing permits required from Governor's office.
